

Park it — if you can find a spot

Parking, as this student discovers, is a bit of a problem after 9:30 most mornings. Not only that, but once you've parked, you still may get a ticket if you're in the wrong place. Some rules of thumb are: red zones mean "No parking at any time." Red zones are reserved for emergency vehicles. Illegally parked cars will be ticketed. Parking in yellow loading zones is limited to the actual time required to load and unload passengers or make deliveries. Motorcycles and bicycles may park only in designated areas. Bicycle riding is not permitted on campus. Special parking permits are available through the dean of student services for handicapped parking permits. Orange zones are reserved for faculty and staff members except after 5 p.m.

Center fountain plans spring leak

Has the money well run dry?

Maybe not, but controversies over the funding of a fountain in the new college center have momentarily clogged the project.

At a March 8 meeting, the Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC) commission voted to ask the governing board to match funds with the body to finance the project. The resolution was passed on a four-to-two margin, with one commission member abstaining.

The commission unanimously rescinded its earlier motion at a March 13 meeting, tabling the project indefinitely.

According to an estimate by college center designer Jerome Kasavan, the inclusion of a fountain in the plans would cost $5,000.

During the March 8 meeting, Dean of Student Services Dr. Victor Willits expressed doubt the governing board would agree to match funds with the ASHC. "The tendency on the part of the board would be that the fountain wouldn't be worth $2,500 to them," said Willits.

Lecture series is a 'smashing success'

"It's a smashing success," said Cindy Obenchain of the Evening Lecture Series at Hartnell. Ms. Obenchain is a counselor and an instructor at Hartnell. With the aid of Ruth Tuff, the series has become very popular.

"I was inspired to do this series," said Ms. Obenchain, "after all, what's more important to people than their relationships with one another?"

"Ruth Tuff helped me put the program together and we both enjoyed doing it."

The lectures take place every Thursday from 6 to 7 p.m. in room C-315. Ms. Obenchain noted that attendance has been good at every lecture.

The topics for this semester's series include "Fair Fighting," "Women and Success," "Sex Scripts," "Aging with a Sense of Humor," and "La Mujer Chicano." The latter will be presented March 22.

Ms. Obenchain feels the theme of

Prizes to be won at disco dance

Where can you go to disco and win a portable TV? The MEChA club of Hartnell is sponsoring a disco dance in the auxiliary gym on March 31 and the TV is just one of the prizes some lucky dancer will be able to hustle out with.

"Francisco's Disco" will be the featured band. The evening begins at 9 a.m. and will finish at 1 p.m. Tickets are $2.50 in advance and $3 at the door.

A raffle will be held during the dance to decide the winner of the three prizes. First prize is the RCA portable TV, the second place offering is an AM-FM portable radio-phonograph and last but not least is a $25 gift certificate from Odyssey records.

The purpose of the dance is to raise funds for MEChA and the activities they plan to hold both on and off campus, said club advisor Paul Aschenbrenner.

Student officers schedule circus, plan faire

Want to be a clown?

You can get first-hand training at the juggling and clowning workshops when the "Kit and Kaboodle" circus premieres at Hartnell March 22.

There won't be a big top, but the troupe will perform specialty tricks and acts on the library lawn from 11 a.m. to noon.

Admission is free. The group is sponsored by the Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC).

The ASHC has also made plans for a spring faire May 17, and is soliciting booths, displays and exhibitions.

Tentative site for the event is in front of the CRAC building.

Any Hartnell club or organization is eligible to enter. Details may be obtained from any ASHC member, or by calling the ASHC office at ext. 393. Deadline for entries is May 11.

Accreditation team to hear all sides

by Jon Kemp

Got any gripes about Hartnell?

If you are an individual or are part of a group on campus and feel that you have a legitimate grievance about how this school is run, then you have about five days to get your act together. On Tuesday, March 20, the accreditation team will arrive.

Accreditation simply determines whether the units you earn here will be worth anything more than fond memories once you transfer.

The team will give a summary report of their visit on Thursday, Mar. 22 at 3 p.m. in PA 125.

Unofficial groups and individuals who feel there may be room for improvement at a university or college often make accreditation visits a forum for discussion. The teams are interested in all aspects of education and so are usually eager to hear critical assessments from within the college community.

Just how a group can get a hearing with the team has yet to be clearly defined. According to Dean of Student Services Dr. Victor Willits, access to the team will be "up to the team chairman."

The chairman of this year's team will be Ray Cattani, president of Reedley College.

According to Dr. Willits, there are three possible ways to contact the accreditation team: 1) contact the chairman of the team prior to the visit; 2) notify Dr. Madsen that you wish to meet with the team; or 3) there may be an informal, open meeting held during the visit for the purpose of hearing just such communications.

There have been allegations on campus that the administration would try to frustrate attempts by critical groups to contact the accreditation team. Dr. Willits indicated that this was untrue and said the team often seeks out the representatives of discontent.

The last time Hartnell was visited by an accreditation team was in 1973. The report from that visit indicated there was room for improvement in many areas of operation around here.

New nursing instructor gets involved

by Josephine Morris

One good thing about Vietnam is the nursing experience it gave to Joyce Muse, the first-ever black instructor in Hartnell's nursing program.

"I worked very hard, ... I'll never get such experience again in my life," Ms. Muse says of her year in Vietnam, one of five years as a U.S. Army nurse.

Ms. Muse specializes in pediatrics (care of children), but she also teaches some medical/surgical classes. She mixes seriousness about nursing and concern for others with an enjoyment of recreation and travel.

"I don't see many minority students — especially blacks (in Hartnell's nursing program)," she says.

"It is a very good program; however, I do wish there were more minorities in it. There are only a couple of Mexican students," she points out, "and only one or two Filipinos."

Noting that the number of minority students in the program does not correspond to the percentage of minorities in the county population, Ms. Muse adds, "I believe there should be an outreach program in the high schools of the county."

Speaking of the Hartnell nursing program, Ms. Muse says, "The two-year program is a very good nursing program and there is also the opportunity for furthering one's education after graduating."

Ms. Muse received her Bachelor of Science degree from Sonoma State College, and her Master's degree from the University of San Francisco.

She has some suggestions and comments for the nurse who wishes to specialize. "Some nurses," she says, "may want to specialize but it is a good idea to get the basic background of nursing before considering specializing." She comments that patient care is not the only option for a student nurse. Other areas, such as public health, in-service teaching in hospitals and jobs with drug companies are also choices a nurse can consider.

Muse herself has many interests beyond nursing. "One of my concerns," she says, "is child abuse. There is too much child abuse in our society. We must become involved and work to curb — and, hopefully, stop — the abuses inflicted on the youth of America." Ms. Muse is a member of the Salinas Valley Child Abuse Prevention Center, and several other civic organizations.

Instructor Barney Muldoon made the papers when he called the proposed "realignment" of department chairs "a joke." Dean of Instruction Larry Elder said, rather

Pen pal sought

Are you a female who would like to correspond with another female in another country?

A Japanese woman college student seeks a pen pal from America who is also a woman in college. For more information, phone Mrs. Whitney at 449-2680 after 4 p.m. or on weekends.

She is also a major in the U.S. Army Reserves and spends two days a month on duty. "It gives me money and experience," she explains.

Ms. Muse leaves no doubt about her feelings concerning her job here. "I certainly do enjoy my present position," she says. "I especially enjoy teaching (pediatrics.)" Nor does she hedge about her choice of professions. "Nursing is a very broad field and very rewarding. It has a lot to offer the person who wants to consider health care as a profession."

Are opinion polls biased?

(CPS) — In academia, two research tools — large-scale surveys and eyewitness observations — are considered the "truest" ways to document a situation.

But according to three peeved sociologists, it ain't necessarily so. In two articles, the authors charge that such "objective" research methods may produce distorted findings if the researchers allow their biases — in these cases sexual — to "taint" the methods.

Gallup polls, the major national public opinion surveys, were targeted by three researchers as misrepresenting national opinion in regards to women's social roles. In their research, reviewed by Human Behavior magazine, Sharlene J. Hesse, Ina B. Burstein and Geri Atkins suggest that the wording of questions in the surveys "offer virtually no opportunity loudly, that he resented the statement. Muldoon replied, "Good! Resent!"

It has been said that the remark was "graceless."

Probably.

But at a time when rumors, insinuations, implications and evasive answers and questions are rampant, it is refreshing to finally hear someone call a spade a spade — or in this case, a joke a joke.

I have conversed with Mr. Muldoon on several occasions. I have not found him particularly graceful. But I have found that he is honest, sincere, cares about the students and loves Hartnell. Anyone who could stick it out in Salinas for 22 years would have to be.

One question that Muldoon asked at that same governing board meeting has been overlooked.

Why is this "realignment" taking place?

That the realignment will be approved by the governing board when it goes before them in May is a foregone conclusion — but why indeed?

Would this really improve the instructional program?

Would it really not cost more money?

Or is this a maneuver to circumvent the PERB ruling that placed department chairs in a separate bargaining unit (neither management nor faculty) thus gaining more members for the "management team?"

Is it an excuse to get rid of some people — a la Art Rasmuson?

How is this going to bring those in the top echelons closer to the students?

We shall see.

There has been a lot of talk about "management teams" and "faculty teams." What about the "student team?" We are the reason that everybody else is here, and we have gotten lost in the shuffle. It stands to reason that if our teachers are upset, our education will be affected. They are the teachers, so why not let them teach — in peace?

to express equitable attitudes toward men and women. The hierarchies of occupation, income, power and influence are fixed in favor of men and worded to prevent rearrangement."

The trio analyzed 3,361 national survey questions used from 1936 to 1973. Men, it turned out, were the subjects of the questions far more often than women. None of the questions that described people in professional roles, positions of job advancement, political roles, military roles or career politics dealt solely with women, while all but a small fraction of them dealt only with men.

The researchers claim that the overall picture that emerges from the poll questions is "one of women in dependent roles, mostly married, with or without children and with husbands to support them. Men support families and generally assume status and leadership roles."

Trask, Peterson, Johnson lead 'Hawk burn

The Hartnell track teams captured both ends of a dual meet against Cabrillo last Friday as the men smashed the Seahawks 127-27 and the women were also easy victors, 103-22.

For the men, Hartnell took first in every event, led by sprinter Phil Trask, who set a new school record in the 400-meter dash, and Tom Peterson, who won three events in chalking up the most points for the Panthers.

Trask's time of 47.6 beat the old school record shared by Al Smith (1962) and Jim "Tiny" Davis (1978) of 48.2.

Peterson won the javelin, shot put, and discus events with throws of 186'10", 43'7 1/4" and 148'3" respectively. Hartnell dominated the field in these events, placing first-second-third in each.

Ricardo Vargas was the star in distance running, taking the 800-meter run with a 1:59.4 clocking and the 5,000-meter race in 15:32.6.

Janet Johnson led the women to their win, taking three events. She took the 100-meter low hurdles in 17.4, the 400-meter low hurdles in 78.5 and sailed 4'8" in the high jump.

Personal bests were recorded by Mende Dew in shot put and javelin tosses of 33' 1/4" and 105'1" respectively.

Pam Burkes and Maria Trujillo also had peak performances in the 3,000-meter race with Burkes winning the event in 11:24.7 clocking.

The men play host to Menlo today at 2 p.m. and the women travel to San Luis Obispo tomorrow for the Cuesta Invitational.

'Monsoon' return topples Lobos, 11-5

The "Maroon Monsoon" is showing signs of returning.

Hartnell's baseball team took advantage of weak pitching to smash Monterey Peninsula College 11-5 Tuesday on the Panther diamond.

The victory marks the second straight Coast Conference win for the Panthers, who are 2-3 in conference play.

The Panthers scored four runs in the opening frame aided by three bases on balls. Hartnell scored three in the second, three more in the fourth, and the final run came across in the fifth. The Panthers had scored a run in the eighth but Bob Mendiola was called out on an appeal after Percy Von Winning had sacrificed him home.

The Lobos scored two runs to try to make a comeback in the ninth, but the Panthers pulled off two heads-up defensive plays at second base to cap the game.

Winning the game for the Panthers was starter Daryl Sinclair, who went the distance for the victory. Sinclair gave up 11 hits, struck out five, walked three and hit one batter.

The Panthers racked up 13 hits, led by Mike Chernetsky, Angelo Moran and Mendiola, all who went three-for-five, walked three and hit one batter.

Enablers plan BBQ

You too can have half a chicken for a mere $3!

The Hartnell Enabler club will hold a barbeque from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. March 28 in front of the PE building.

Menu items include half a chicken, chili beans, salad, French bread and beverage. Tickets may be purchased at the Enabler office, Unit 1, ext. 477.

Hartnell goes on the road for three contests before returning home to play Ohlone March 27 at 2:30 p.m.

Rowe allowed two runs each in the fourth and ninth innings. In between, he set the Oaks down in order five times, including striking out the side in the fifth. Six of the seven hits he surrendered were singles. Rowe walked only three while fanning 11.

The Panthers travel to San Bruno today to take on Skyline. The bridesmaids travel to Coalinga on Tuesday to face West Hills in a non-conference game, and play Cabrillo next Friday in Aptos.

Tankers sweep Contra Costa

Both Hartnell swim teams came away from a double dual meet in Contra Costa County with two victories to add to their collection. The women defeated both Contra Costa and Laney by scores of 63-33 and 60-42 respectively, while the men routed Contra Costa 60-48 and stomped Laney 85-30.

The Panther women own a perfect 8-0 dual meet record while the men boast a 5-2-1 mark.

In the meet, Katrina Doerfler set one school record in the 100-meter backstroke and helped set another in the 200-meter freestyle relay with a time of 1:50.9. Helping set the record in the freestyle relay were Patty Agee, Kathy Schramm and Pam Fugitt.

Against Contra Costa, the Hart women dominated the field in taking first place nine times. Fugitt recorded her fastest time ever in the 200-meter freestyle with a 2:13.3 time. Kelley Hervey, competing for the first time on the three-meter diving board, took home a first place in the event.

For the men, Hartnell's Rick Janicki, Joe Fassio and Andy McKay recorded lifetime bests at the double dual meet. Fassio has improved his personal bests in every meet he has entered this year.

Charlie Cunha had a winning day as he swam to six first place finishes. Dean Hanquist and John Giacomazzi each took first in three events. Against Laney, the Hart men snatched first place in 11 events.

The Hart swim teams will travel to San Luis Obispo today to take on the Cougars of Cuesta at 2:30. The Panthers will journey to Monterey next Friday to challenge the Monterey Peninsula College Lobos beginning at 2:30.

Backpacking offered

Interested in the outdoors? Here's a chance to take advantage of nature by enrolling in Ellie Rowe's backpacking class.

The class is held on Monday and Wednesday at 9 a.m., beginning March 19. During the nine-week course, one backpacking trip will be planned. For more information, contact Ms. Rowe in PE-108, ext. 358.

Tennis women win third, men drop same

by Pam Edwards

The Hartnell tennis teams had one goal in mind last Friday and that was to beat Cabrillo. Last year both the men and the women from Aptos won the Coast Conference titles. But this time the Panther squads were going to make it as difficult as possible for the Seahawks.

The Hart women put on a tough display of concentration when it counted and won three crucial tie-breakers to hand the Cabrillo women their first conference defeat in two years. Barbara Hampton outlasted Linda Bol 6-3, 5-7, 6-3; Pam Edwards saved three set points to turn back Ruthie Johnson 7-6, 6-0; Lori Fechner outstayed Karen Ambler 6-4, 6-3; and Lisa Conklin played tough to beat Laura Weybright 6-4, 6-4.

At the end of the singles matches Hartnell had a 4-2 lead and needed only one win in the doubles to beat the Seahawks. For a while things didn't look too bright for the Panther women as all the Hart teams were behind. The number one doubles team of Hampton and Edwards were down 5-3 before they could come back to take the set and the match 7-6, 6-1 to give Hartnell the victory.

Conklin and Carmen Vargas came from behind to win 7-6, 6-4 to make the final score 6-3.

The Hart men barely missed upsetting Cabrillo but fell short 5-4. Winners against the Seahawks were Mike Ramirez, who had a tough 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 match and Buzz Ryan who also had to come from behind win 5-7, 6-3, 6-3.

In doubles competition, Mark Emerson and Eric Angstadt saved the second set but were edged 6-3, 6-7, 6-4. Lonh Barker and Ramirez teamed up to win a 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 struggle. Ryan and Ken Smith joined forces to bring Hartnell the fourth point of the match 6-3, 6-3.

The women's team currently is 3-0 in conference and 6-0 overall while the men's team is 0-3 in conference and 3-3 overall.

Today the Panther men will travel to Menlo for a 2:30 p.m. battle while the women play host to Menlo at 2:30 p.m.

Student president exudes enthusiasm

by Cyndee Fontana

It's a "Rocky"-like success story. From a disillusioned high school drop-out to Hartnell student body president, Maria Barrs has affected a 180-degree about-face.

The 22-year-old San Francisco native has positive feelings now about education, the Hartnell proposed college center and the direction of the Associated Students of Hartnell College (ASHC).

"I think the student government is very important," said Ms. Barrs. "We've succeeded in getting more students involved."

Ms. Barrs would like to see more progress made in the area of student government-student relationships. "We should be a unifying force, and give kind of a focus for the students," she commented.

"I think there is a lot of support here from the faculty and administration," Ms. Barrs added. "But that may be because we haven't done anything that they object to," she laughed.

While she thinks the student body is perking up, Ms. Barrs feels that the proposed college center could generate more interest and excitement.

"We needed it badly. It will change the atmosphere a lot," Ms. Barrs predicted. "I really like the plans (college architect Jerome) Kasavan has drawn up. The streets for people idea is great," she said.

Though she feels the student lounge is useful, Ms. Barrs said "it's not a center."

The ASHC is currently discussing the possibility of including a fountain in the college center plans. Although the project has been indefinitely tabled by the commission, Ms. Barrs expressed support for the project.

"The fountain would really add a lot," Ms. Barrs commented. "I don't think a mall is complete without a fountain." Ms. Barrs sees the fountain as "a gathering place."

Ms. Barrs acknowledges a problem with student apathy. "We have real problem with the 'typical student.' Most are transient," commented Ms. Barrs. She is currently working to find students to serve on campus committees and/or for the student seat on the governing board.

Task force lists budget priorities

Where will the budget ax fall first?

The answer became clearer March 6 when the Budget/Program Review Task Force recommended that the existing instructional program (this means your classes,) should be the last to go.

directly essential to the education of Hartnell students. Leading off this endangered species list are things like equipment replacement, capital outlay, reprographics, communications, travel and conferences. Sabbaticals and other leaves for professional development may also be abandoned.

To begin with the Task Force, "envisions an aggressive program of water and energy conservation."

If further cutbacks need to be made, the Task Force suggests ending all cultural enrichment and recreational activities at Hartnell. Student jobs and the Career Center could also feel the pinch.

Preserving the college staff emerges as a major priority. In the opinion of the committee, "the educational services the college provides its students ultimately depend on a competent, dedicated staff."

The Task Force recommends that the district use its reserves to maintain the integrity of the instructional program.
